

Founding Customer Pricing

Temporary launch discounts for early customers while QuantWeaver builds commercial evidence

Founding prices are temporary promotional rates. Reference prices remain visible so customers can see the normal intended value of the service.

Current launch pricing

How the promotion works

- Founding prices are offered to accelerate early adoption and customer evidence while QuantWeaver is entering the market.
- The discount may be withdrawn or revised for new customers as demand, service cost and product evidence become clearer.

QUANTWEAVER | CUSTOMER DOCUMENTATION

- Existing paid periods are not retroactively repriced because a later promotion starts or ends.
- Upgrade credits are based on the amount actually paid, not the crossed-out reference price.
- Prices do not imply any guaranteed trading return or product outcome.

Public display rule

On product and pricing pages, show the reference price visibly struck through next to the founding offer. Label the lower price clearly as a temporary founding-customer or launch discount. Avoid fake countdown timers or artificial scarcity unless a real end date or capacity limit has been formally set.
